The Williston village trustees have voted to close all the fruit stands Sunday; also to prohibit all base ball and fast ball playing Sunday.

In the sugar orchard of Mrs. Jennie L. Bill of Albany, from 125 trees was made 800 pounds, or nearly seven pounds to a tree, of very nice maple sugar this season.

H. W. Faxon, of Burlington, has a French coin of the date of 1787 which was unearthed on the Lawson farm at Murray Island, N. Y. Mr. Faxon is one of the proprietors of the Brandon Inn at Brandon and a well known and popular hotel man.

Henry E. Bissell and I. M. Chase, of Brandon, have leased the Murray Hill hotel on the St. Lawrence river at Murray Island, N. Y. Mr. Bissell is one of the proprietors of the Brandon Inn at Brandon and a well known and popular hotel man.

The general demand for hay is great in Bennington while the supply is equal to the demand. The best grades have a ready sale at $14 a ton while medium grades bring $12 and inferior grades are yet cheaper. Straw is in good demand and brings a good price.

The body of William O'Neill, who fell into Burton river April 29 and drowned, has not yet been recovered. Searching parties have been on the river at all times when the condition of the stream would permit. Several days the water was over the banks and search had to be abandoned.

Large Quests of Newfane Woman.

The recent death of Edward West Currier in New York city make available a bequest of $102,000 to Williams College and $100,000 in 1920 under the provisions of the will of Mrs. Anna Ormsbee Currier, who died in New York in January, 1902. Edward Currier was the brother of William O'Neill, who fell into Burton river April 29 and drowned, has not yet been recovered. Searching parties have been on the river at all times when the condition of the stream would permit. Several days the water was over the banks and search had to be abandoned.

The mobilization and field exercises for the last ten years or so, the French army officers have been reorganizing the Peruvian army, and a general mobilization was recently started out with an efficiency that would have done credit to any European force.

The head of the reorganizing commission is Commandant Paul Clement, and his work has covered every detail of military life. He has devised new uniforms for all the corps closely resembling those of the French army.

Modern weapons of all kinds have been procured. The officers have been put through rigid courses of instruction and the men thoroughly drilled.

The mobilization and field exercises were held in the valley of Jaén, at a height of more than 12,000 feet above sea level. The troops were transported to Huari by rail and marched the rest of the distance, some thirty miles, through a mountain country of the wildest character. All the provisions and supplies were transported on mule back and only the lightest artillery, the mountain batteries were taken.

A reserve body recruited among the Indians took part in the maneuvers. It was the first time they had been called out. They were all dressed in the poncho and wide straw hat, but they showed great aptitude, and the official report says that after the three weeks during which the drills lasted they were as proficient in all essential movements as the regulars.

The military training school is at Chorillos. The regular army consists of 4000 men. The size of the reserve is not revealed.—New York Sun.

Book of Much Interest to Bennington.

The new book, "The Hoosier Valley" by Grace Greely Niles, contains about one hundred illustrations, notable among which are the charter of Bennington, 1740, the first permanently settled town in Vermont; the Old First church and the home of Col. Ethan Allen at Bennington Center; the survey of Bennington and the snowshoes used in making the survey in January, 1745; a picture of six Bennington men born between 1861 and 1772; Wakeman Inn, the oldest hotel in Vermont; the Catamount monument and the master roll of the first military company in Vermont, organized with John Fasset as captain at Bennington in October, 1764. It may be added in this connection that the Vermont Historical Society is trying to secure Lieutenant Dunford's map of Bennington battlefield and also a photograph of the house in which Colonels Baum and Pfister died of their wounds after the battle.

It was further charged that those accused of cutting prices on proprietary medicines were unable to purchase any kind of drugs from the members of the several associations. All such practices are perpetually enjoined.

The decree entered today was dictated by the government attorneys and agreed to by the defendants. With the entering of the decree the litigation came to an end with a complete victory for the government.

I do not believe any man has tried harder to avert strikes than I have. We trades unionists shun strikes, but we never will surrender our right to strike when our God given privileges are denied us, when manhood is insulted and when we have no other redress for our grievances. Organized labor without resorting to strikes has won much for itself which never would have won without organization.

The telegraphers did not strike to get the recent increase of wages, the first they have had for forty years, but there is no doubt the strong front maintained by the unions of Chicago and other western cities had influence bringing about the better conditions.

Is there any loyal American who would advocate in the peace congress that this nation disarm without being assured the other nations would do the same? If this country should disarm and the others retain their armament, it would not be long until we were wiped off the face of the earth. The same principle applies to labor, and organization is its armament.

A Beneficial Toilet Preparation.

Organization, However, Is Necessary
For Protection of Labor.

Contradicting what he said is a popular belief that the principal object of trades unions was to call strikes, President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor addressed a meeting of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union in New York to celebrate the 10 per cent advance in wages recently obtained. Mr. Gompers said there was nothing so potent to prevent strikes as organizations of workers. He said:

I do not believe any man has tried harder to avert strikes than I have. We trades unionists shun strikes, but we never will surrender our right to strike when our God given privileges are denied us, when manhood is insulted and when we have no other redress for our grievances. Organized labor without resorting to strikes has won much for itself which never would have won without organization.
